The Early HAMPTON's (de Hampton of Staffordshire)

“It is important to note that the many assertions made on the Internet about Richard Gervase de Hampton are misleading, because there were at least 4 Richard Gervase de Hampton's! The first Richard Gervase de Hampton was living in 1320, and had five sons and at least one daughter. Once I had determined these important facts, it became a matter of trying to determine what became of those sons. Following are my attempts at that task. I have endeavored to include with each person the quotes that led me to place them in the order you find them. In a very few instances, I make a working hypothesis of relationships, but those assumptions are made plain.

The problem remains that, other than in the paper of Dr. Joseph Lyon Miller - and Stebbing Shaw's 'Notes of Staffordshire' about the Hampton's - which makes pointed reference to the fact that William Hampton who immigrated to Virginia on the Bona Nova was related to these de Hampton's - I have yet to find the “missing link!” although I do make some assumptions.”
