Willie Thomas Arthur and Anselona (Annie) D. Wade Arthur lived in Halifax County on the Guthrie Farm for some years before buying a farm in Lunenburg County in late 1914 or early 1915. They had nine children: John Flourny Arthur, Ruben Henry Arthur, Elsie Lorrene Arthur Tomlinson, Edgar Wilson Arthur, Durell Arthur, Stephen Lee Arthur, Ethel Mae Arthur Williams, Irene Della Arthur Moore Byrd, and Annie Maude Arthur Hankins.

Recorded from conversations with Durell Arthur 1983: "The only time I remember seeing my grandpa Arthur, he came walking to our house at Victoria. Me and Edgar and Stephen were getting up leaves to put in the stable when he came walking down the road to the house. We didn't know who he was and he told us he was our grandpa. He had been to the reunion of Confederate War Veterans in Richmond and on his way home had gotten off the train in Victoria and stopped by to see Pa". (Durell was only 6 years old when Lee Arthur died)

"I knew my grandma Arthur well. After I could drive we had a T Model and went to see her. They's all buried at the home place on the Banister River. That picture taken of her with the dog in her lap, I was there when it was taken by one of the Mullins. The first telephone I ever saw was at her house. Before they even had electricity. That was just a small place. Hubby stayed there until he won't able to stay by hisself and they put him in a home in South Boston. Them folks said they couldn't handle him and he was sent to Williamsburg and in less than three months he was dead. They had to get a bulldozer to fix the road so as they could get his body to the graveyard."

"I was pallbearer at my Grandma Arthur's funeral. We had two sets of bearers then and took turns toting the casket from the house to the cemetery. We didn't have no hearse. Pa after he was married lived on the Guthrie place until we moved to Lunenburg."

"I remember my other Grandma Zip too. She used to come and stay with us for weeks at a time."

"Papa borrowed money from the Federal Land Bank during that Hoover Depression and would have lost his farm if it hadn't been for his Mama giving him money to pay on it. She had a pension for widows of confederate veterans. It was just a little, less than twenty-five dollars a year."

"Robbie Arthur had a son he named Lee. Annie married a Mullins and had a daughter named Mammie."

Recorded from conversations with Elsie Arthur Tomlinson 1983: "When we moved to Lunenburg I was 12 years old. (1914-1915) The first house we lived in was on this side of the creek. (South side of Hounds Creek) I own that land now. It was just a square house and another kitchen off from it with a flat rock for a step. That kitchen had a big old fireplace in it and that's where I used to do the washing after Pa built a shed kitchen on the other house. After we moved across the creek Pa tore that shedroom down and used the lumber to build a strip room. (a place for preparing tobacco for sale) There was a ford across that creek and cars used to go through there. One day while I was milking, Dr. Kindig came right through the field on his car, not even in any road, I reckon he was taking a shortcut to that ford. After me and Haney was married, we still got our mail over there on the Poorhouse Road. That first house we lived in had Walnut Trees around it and a cemetery where Hardys was buried. I remember them burying one there after Pa bought that place."
